

From: Harvey Waxman
To: Microsoft ATR
Date: 1/3/02 7:58am
Subject: Microsoft Settlement

What good does it do to protest? Microsoft owns the operating system world. Why else would a cumbersome, complex, frustrating and, generally acknowledged to be, inferior operating system prevail? Could it be that Mr. Gates had the vision to understand that once his DOS was installed on the vast majority of computers in homes, courtesy of his arrangement with IBM, he could do anything he wanted without the benefit of competition?

There is no competition because of stupid and naive decisions made by Apple computer. But the fact is that there is no competition.

--

Harvey Waxman D.M.D.
73 Wright Lane
Wickford, RI 02852-5846